Objectives

- To introduce the Learning Progression Framework (LPF) for English Language as a reference tool to identify students' strengths and weaknesses, and give constructive feedback to them

- To provide suggestions for teachers on using the LPF to develop students' reading and writing skills progressively by improving the school-based curriculum planning at primary level

- To inspire teachers with hands-on activities on designing/revising assessment items/tasks to improve students' reading and writing skills

What is the Learning Progression Framework (LPF)?

The LPF:

- represents the growth of learners on a developmental continuum as they work towards the Learning Targets and Objectives of the English Language curriculum;

- is made up of Attainment Milestones organised under the four language skills and divided into eight levels of attainment;

- helps teachers better understand and articulate learners' performance; and

- helps teachers plan strategically how to enhance English Language learning, teaching and assessment.

What are the purposes of developing the LPF?

✓ To provide reference for understanding students' learning progress

✓ To help schools plan and review the school English Language curriculum and L&T strategies

✓ To help students progress along the learning continuum

✗ Not for summative assessment / benchmarking students

Tips for Developing and Assessing Students' Reading Skills

- Identify students' strengths and weaknesses with reference to the LPF.

- Include simple and straightforward questions to cultivate students' confidence, and open-ended and more challenging questions to stretch their abilities.

- Introduce reading skills explicitly to help students construct meaning from texts. To this end, various effective teaching strategies for reading could be integrated into the Reading Workshops.

Range and application of reading strategies

Using the LPF to enhance the school-based curriculum planning

Teachers can make use of the LPF to

- conduct a holistic review and planning across year levels to ensure the progressive development of students' reading skills

- understand students' ability and needs, which can help them develop their school-based reading workshops / improve the school curriculum

Progressive Development of Students' Reading Skills

- Task demand should increase with text complexity. To cater for learner diversity, simple tasks can be included for complex texts to cultivate learners' confidence, and difficult tasks for simple texts to stretch students' abilities.

- To promote learner independence, the amount of support provided could be gradually reduced.

- Ample opportunities should be provided for students to apply the reading skills and strategies in daily lessons, e.g. setting additional questions for reading texts in the textbook.

- Effective curriculum planning is important to ensure

  ➢ a balanced coverage of different text types,

  ➢ the explicit teaching of text features, and

  ➢ the introduction of language development strategies, e.g. vocabulary building skills.

From Reading to Writing

Enhancing the implementation of READING Workshops

- Ensuring the progressive development of reading skills and strategies
- Providing opportunities for students to develop their creativity and critical thinking skills
- Introducing the features of different text types explicitly

Connecting students' READING and WRITING experiences

- Making alignment between the GE programme and Reading Workshops to design writing tasks with meaningful contexts
- Exposing students to authentic readers to enrich their writing ideas and language used

Underlying Principles

1. Language development strategies, generic skills, and positive values and attitudes are essential to English Language learning and form an integral part of the learning-teaching-assessment cycle.

2. The meaningfulness and appropriateness of the written texts to the context, purpose and audience are implicit in and apply across all the learning outcomes.

3. The development of writing strategies does not readily lend itself to descriptions of the learning outcomes in terms of eight attainment milestones, for example,
   - writing legibly (preferably being able to use both print and cursive scripts),
   - generating ideas by brainstorming or seeking and selecting information and ideas from different sources,
   - using knowledge of letter-sound relationships to spell words,
   - asking questions to clarify and seek information for correction,
   - editing drafts by correcting errors in language (e.g. spelling, punctuation and grammar items) with or without using references,
   - revising drafts by adding, deleting, substituting or linking ideas, and
   - reflecting on own writing based on feedback from teachers or peers.

   Teachers are expected to help learners develop these strategies with increasing sophistication.

4. Teacher support is essential to helping learners express and organise their ideas during the learning and teaching process. As learners progress, the amount of support provided is gradually reduced to promote learner independence.

The LPF for English Language (Writing) – Underlying Principles

1. language development strategies, generic skills, and positive values and attitudes (all 4 skills)

Using the LPF to provide constructive feedback on students' writing

The LPF provides a common scale and language for teachers to describe students' performance and progress in English Language learning.

In the writing task about Sarah's Secret, most students attained ATM 3 in Content, Organisation, Language and Style.

They could establish links using some simple cohesive devices and arrange relevant ideas chronologically to show a generally clear focus.

They could use a small range of vocabulary…

How about their performance in Language and Style?

In the writing about Sarah's Secret, some of my students attained ATM 4 in Content, Organisation, Language and Style.

They could establish links using a small range of cohesive devices and arrange relevant ideas in a short text to show a generally clear focus.

More examples on students' writing performance by making reference to the LPF

Exemplars are provided to illustrate the expected performance of learners at different levels for teachers' ease of reference.

Exemplars are categorised into different ATMs. Teachers may refer to 'ATMs 1-5' for exemplars at primary level.

Questions for reflection

Learning and Teaching
How can teachers improve the design of writing activities to stretch students' potential and address their weaknesses?
- Are students provided with opportunities to recycle learnt language items in the writing activities for consolidation?
- Are reading and writing experiences connected to provide sufficient input to students?
- Is there a gradual reduction in teacher support to promote learner independence? (LPF-underlying principle 4)
- Are different writing strategies (e.g. generating ideas, editing drafts, reflecting on own writing) incorporated in the school curriculum? (LPF-underlying principle 3)

Progression
- What are the strengths and weaknesses of students?
- What is the next level of attainment for students?
- Is there clear and gradual progression in task requirements from KS1 to KS2 in terms of:
  ➢ formality of text types
  ➢ familiarity of topics
  ➢ elaboration of ideas

etc.

Assessment
- Do the writing activities involve peer/self-assessment?
- Are learning objectives and assessment criteria co-constructed or shared with students?
